In other words, Money Masters of Our Time gives a biography of each investor's road to success, while the Market Wizards gives details of each investor's investing strategy and mentality: both important but I find Market Wizards more valuable. In summary, I would read this book only if you already read Market Wizards series. Thesis: that the investor’s best hope of doing well is by seeking the “fertile fields for growth” and then holding those stocks for long periods of time. Growth company: long-term growth of earnings, reaching a new high level per share at the peak of each succeeding major business cycle and which gives indications of reaching new high earnings at the peak of the future business cycle. Timing: the most profitable and least risky time to own a share is during the early stages of growth. Criteria: 1) Superior research to develop products and markets 2) Lack of cutthroat competition 3) Compara Money Masters of Our Time is a reappraisal and revision of those money masters who have stood the test of time plus a look at new money masters. Train emphasises the parts of their various business careers that illuminate their investment techniques focusing on notable individuals whose decisions to buy and sell have actually made money grow. How do they reason? The “Money Masters” covered are: Warren Buffet, Paul Cabot, Philip Carret, Philip Fisher, Benjamin Graham, Mark Lightbrown, Peter Lynch, John Neff, T. Rowe Price, Richard Rainwater, Julian Robertson, Jim Rogers, George Soros, Michael Steinhardt, John Templeton, Ralph Wanger, Robert Wilson. New and updated appraisals of the winning investment techniques of seventeen of the greatest “Money Masters”-- both new and old-- by a bestselling financial expert In Money Masters of Our Time John Train once again displays his ability to explain clearly the strategies, experience, and human qualities of those money masters who have stood the test of time, as.Â Whether contrasting the long-term approach of Warren Buffett, with the “relentless pursuit” style of Peter Lynch or distilling the principles of market timing or expounding a list of investment “don'ts,” John Train makes the collective wisdom of the greatest, most successful investors available to all, professional and amateur alike.
