Poetic Theology is a work of cultural or apologetic theology; that is, it attempts "to develop theological categories, given to us by Scripture and tradition, in conversation with the contemporary cultural situation" (10). For Dyrness, what stands out as a significant feature of the contemporary situation is the importance of self-styling practices through which individuals aim to fashion or make (poesis) a life that is pleasing, practices that range from arts involvement to gardening to sports mania. Dyrness wants to take seriously these activities—activities that are precious to people. Theology is the study of God, what He has done, is doing, and will do in the world. And it's not just for those with formal education or those who work at your church. It's for you in your everyday moments, questions, and decisions. It's for the big and little, the exciting and mundane. Our theology is the basis of our faith and touches every part of our existence. In this 8-session study, explore the essential doctrines of Scripture, God, Jesus, the Holy Spirit, humanity, salvation, the church, and the end times to know God more deeply through these foundational truths.
