Introduction to Contemporary Special Education: New Horizons. Deborah Smith. 4.5 out of 5 stars 45. I'm in single subject teacher credential program and plan to teach foreign language; this book is required for the Special Education class. I'm taking this course online. At first I thought this Special Education course was just to fulfill the requirement of the credential, there's not much to do with my teaching Mandarin. However, my eyes and mind are opened by reading the first five chapters so far. This book is very detailed and informative. It's especially good if you're taking the course online because you get pretty much everything in the book.
