Rabbi Jacob ben Asher: Arba’ah Turim. Rabbi Jacob ben Asher: Arba’ah Turim (The four rows). The miniature shows the ceremony of a Jewish marriage. Rome BAV Ross. The Arba’ah Turim was written by Rabbi Jacob ben Asher. He is also sometimes known as The Tur (after the title of his most famous work) or as ”Ba’al Ha’Turim[Master of the Turim]. He lived from 1270 to 1343, in Toledo, Spain. Unlike Maimonides’ Mishneh Torah, the Arba’ah Turim covers only those areas of Jewish religious law that were in force in the author's time; it was written to be a halachic guide to those halachot relevent to people living outside of Israel in a time where there is no Temple. The Arba’ah Turim also differs from the Mishneh Torah, in that, unlike Maimonides’ work, it deals only with areas of Jewish law that are applicable in the Jewish exile. WikiMatrix. While Arba’ah Turim does not include women in its list of those ineligible to write Sifrei Torah, some see this as proof that women are permitted to write a sefer Torah.
