As old as Aristotle’s ethics and as new as modern moral and psychological theories is the understanding that we become the persons we want to be by first acting like the persons we want to be, even before we fully feel ourselves to be such persons. Up the structure. That is the purpose of this book: to explain the liturgy and, in the course of doing so, to linger.