2. SUMMARY OF THE BOOK

When Landon was 17 years old, he met a girl named Jamie Sullivan, one of his friends at school and also the daughter of a pastor, Hegbert Sullivan in Beaufort. Jamie was the girl who always carried the Bible everywhere she went, she always wore a cardigan and skirt with her hair in a bun and ancient look that made none of the students in the school wanted to be friends with her, because Jamie had always been considered strange by her friends. Although none of her friends at school liked her, Jamie still became a good person, she would smile even if she got a strange look from her friends and always helped anyone in need. She was also active in helping children in orphanages.

Landon, the man who once often mocked the outside appearance of Jamie was now harboring feelings for Jamie after further recognizing the girl. He began to not care about the views and opinions of his friends about Jamie.

Jamie revealed that she suffered from leukemia disease. Since that time their happy days began to shroud in sadness. Landon then remembered with thanksgiving to Jamie that the most desirable in life is to get married and was attended by hundreds of people. Weddings were held and attended by hundreds of people who packed the church, that's what made the last days in the life of Jamie to be so perfect.
