
399-414) In Search of the Buddhist Books, translated by James Legge. (21344-7) $2.00 The Travels of Sir John Mandeville, edited by A. W. Pollard. (21221-1) $2.75
(continued on back flap) (Â Captain James Cook IN THE PACIFIC AS TOLD BY SELECTIONS OF HIS OWN JOURNALS 1768-1779 Edited by A. GRENFELL PRICE C.M.G., M.A. (Oxon), D.LnT.(ADEL), F.R.G.S. Illustrated by GEOFFREY C. INGLETON With a new Introduction by PERCY G. ADAMS Professor of English The University of Tennessee.Â and artifacts, and manuscripts and first editions of dozens of journals and logs kept by Cook and the men who sailed with him.Â But it has not always been possible to read Cookâ€™s own words exactly as he wrote them. Captain James Cook was a master voyager and a seeker of knowledge who commanded three demanding scientific expeditions. He and his crews had encounters with peoples of the South Seas which led to mutual respect and trade, but also to misunderstanding and violence. His death at the hands of Hawaiians turned him into a legendary figure, a hero of the Enlightenment who was said to have sacrificed his life bringing "civilization" to the Pacific. Yet despite everything that is known about this sea captain's many adventures, the man himself remains shrouded in mystery. In this book, Da Captain James Cook was a master voyager and a seeker of knowledge who commanded three demanding scientific expeditions. He and his crews had encounters with peoples of the South Seas which led to mutual respect and trade, but also to misunderstanding and violence. His death at the hands of Hawaiians turned him into a legendary figure, a hero of the Enlightenment who was said to have sacrificed his life bringing "civilization" to the Pacific. Yet despite everything that is known about this sea captain's many adventures, the man himself remains shrouded in mystery. In this book, Da