Book Overview. This description may be from another edition of this product. A visit to the magic attic transports Heather to another time and place where she learns to value her loyal friends who like her for who she is. Heather was invited to Tiffney's birthday party but Keisha, Megan, and Allison weren't. They say the only reason Tiffney's inviting Heather is because Heather's Mom is a reporter. When Heather gets upset, she goes to her neighbor Ellie's house because she has a magic attic. Heather tries on a beautiful pink ball gown and is transported to England. There she meets Lisbeth, a servant at the taylor shop, and Heather invites her to go to the ball. When they get there, Lisbeth is accused of stealing a necklace. Will Heather stick up for her friend? Heather is invited to a birthday party being thrown by Tiffany Sibbett, one of the coolest girls in school. However, her Magic Attic Club friends get excluded from Tiffany's big-deal birthday party. Heather is on-the-fence about whether she should go to one of the coolest parties ever...and she's afraid what Tiffany would think if she refuses the invitation. But she doesn't want to hurt her best friends. She decides to take a trip to the attic for an answer. Donna Lea Simpson. “She was far too disappointed. “I cannot imagine,” Arabella said, faintly. “Well I can,” Lady Cynthia said, her lovely eyes wide and her expression concerned. “It is rumored, just rumored, you understand, that he is to wed a country squire's daughter, a girl with ten thousand pounds. Perhaps even now he is pressing his suit. What say you to that?” Fifteen What was she going to do? Arabella felt as though the world were on her shoulders, and there was no one in whom she could confide, no one to whom she could turn. She started to write a l
